FreshFuel - Healthy meal prep delivery

Executive Summary

FreshFuel delivers weekly healthy meal-prep boxes to busy professionals in our city. Launched 8 months ago with 65 recurring customers.

Problem

Busy professionals want healthy meals but lack time to cook. Existing options are either expensive restaurant delivery or generic grocery meal kits.

Market

Our city has about 300,000 residents, many of them professionals. The meal-kit industry is growing quickly. We believe we can capture 2 percent of the market.

Business Model

Customers pay 89 USD per week for 10 meals. Food and packaging cost about 48 USD per box and delivery costs 9 USD, leaving roughly 32 USD before labor and rent. We rent a commissary kitchen for 3,200 USD/month.

Financials & Funding Ask

Seeking 150,000 USD to buy a delivery van and hire two cooks. We expect to reach 400 customers within a year. We have not yet calculated customer acquisition cost; most customers came from Instagram and word of mouth.

Team

Founder is a certified nutritionist with no prior business experience. Part-time cook helps on weekends.

Risks

Competition from larger meal-kit companies. We plan to differentiate through freshness and local ingredients.