Open public sources for a Tunisian legal and financial RAG corpus

Source name, description and download link. Compiled 1 October 2026 from web research.

Access. Every source below is reachable without login, payment or prior authorisation. Decree-law 2020-1 states that JORT texts are free to access and download, and data.gov.tn publishes under an open national licence. I did not verify the reuse terms of every site, so read each site's legal notice before redistributing files.

Links were not individually tested. They come from search results, and I could not open the PDFs myself. Run a quick link check before the team starts downloading.

Source types. Official = government body or regulator. Hosted copy = copy of an official text on another institution's site. Third-party mirror = private or NGO copy of a public text; prefer the official version when you can. International repository = WIPO, ILO, FAO or UNCTAD.

Language. Only the Arabic JORT is legally binding; French versions are informative. Most PDFs here are French, which suits an embedding model such as multilingual-e5 or bge-m3 if you later add Arabic.

Freshness. Consolidation dates differ between files (for example the ILO labour code is from 1996). Store a 'version date' and 'source URL' as metadata on every chunk, and add the finance law each year.

Legislation.tn blocks automated tools (robots.txt). Download from the other sources, or manually from that portal, rather than scraping it.

Left out on purpose: Scribd, Studocu, SlideShare (user uploads of unclear origin) and African Markets (paywalled report access).

Not legal or financial advice. These are raw texts. Your assistant should cite article numbers and dates and say when a text may be outdated.

Suggested next steps for the project

- Start with 3 or 4 topic areas rather than everything, so retrieval can be evaluated properly. For example: company creation and Startup Act, tax (IRPP/IS/TVA), banking and consumer rules, labour and social security.

- Chunk by article ('Article 93', 'Article 96'...), since the codes are already structured that way. Compare it against fixed-size chunks for the report's chunking comparison.

- Keep the metadata: code name, article number, JORT reference, consolidation date, source URL, language.

- Write 15 to 20 test questions with the expected article number, so you can score retrieval (hit rate at top-k) objectively.
